Pete Arbogast of USC talked to the students about careers in Sports Broadcasting.

Students were able to find out about education options and programs from college representatives.

Sports Trainers talked to the students about working with the Anaheim Ducks and the career path in their aspect of the industry.

Connecting with a representative from the Angels Baseball organization helps students understand the opportunities in Sports Management.

“This was a terrific opportunity for students to preview the Sports field. It was very motivating for students to see and talk to successful people in the different fields.”
