A manager at Knott's shared his personal career story and encouraged the students to develop their customer service skills.

An EMT from Lynch Ambulance provided students with a close-up look at his job in the medical industry.

During the Aramark presentation, students were able to experience dessert preparation techniques.

Students visited college and ROP exhibit booths and identified the classes they needed to take after graduation.

Hands-on experience is one of the best ways to learn about a career option, especially when it tastes as sweet as this one.

A personal trainer from Bally Total Fitness showed the students some of the exercises he does with his clients.

The OC Animal Control representatives showed the students how they work with the animals while on the job.

This student not only won a Disney The Incredibles Collector's phone from AT&T, but also filled out a job application for one of the business exhibitors.

Everyone had a good time at the Vital Link Career Day, both students and the business representatives.
